Introduction

Here is an engaging past simple 'Wh' questions game to help students practice asking and answering 'Wh' questions.

Procedure

Choose two team leaders and give each leader a copy of the worksheet.

Have the leaders stand at opposite sides of the room with the rest of the class in the middle.

Toss a coin to see which team leader will start the game.

The winner of the toss secretly chooses a verb from the list on their worksheet and shows it to the teacher.

The leader then thinks of a past simple 'Wh' question that will elicit a response using the chosen verb. The question is not allowed to contain any form of that verb.

The leader then asks the question to one of the students in the middle of the class.

If the student answers using the verb in the past simple tense, the student comes over to the leader and joins their team.

Both leaders then cross off the verb from their worksheets.

This student becomes the new leader. The new and old leaders then work together to think of the next question.

The teams take it in turns to play until there are no more students left in the middle of the room.

The team with the most members at the end of the game wins.

Example:

A leader chooses the verb 'drove'.

The leader calls on Darren and asks, "Darren, how did you get to class today?"

If Darren replies with a sentence containing 'drove', e.g. 'I drove my car', he joins the leader's team.

If he replies with a different verb, e.g. 'I walked to class' or if he uses the wrong tense, he has to stay in the middle of the room. The other team then asks a question and so on.
