Introduction

In this chat abbreviations worksheet, students learn and practice instant messaging abbreviations and acronyms that people often use in online chats and text messages.

Procedure continued

Give each student a copy of the two-page worksheet.

Students begin by reading an instant messaging conversation between two friends.

Students then unscramble words to reveal the words and phrases that the abbreviations and acronyms in the chat represent.

Read the instant messaging conversation between Sung-ho and Tanmay.

Sung-ho: Hey Tan. Did you finish your report or were you too busy playing computer games?

Tanmay: LOL. Don't worry Sung. I finished it all.

Sung-ho. Great! Did the teacher say it was due on Tuesday?

Tanmay: IDK. I wasn't really paying attention in class. I was daydreaming about going to the beach at the weekend.

Sung-ho: ROTFL. That is so typical of you.

Tanmay: OMG. That's not true. I am a great student. BTW, will your GF be joining us at the beach on Sat?

Sung-ho: No. We broke up. She said she can't have a BF anymore because of her studies.

Tanmay: NVM. I don't think she was right for you. You can do better IMO.

Sung-ho: LOL. Thanks!

Tanmay: NP. Hey Sung. Give me a minute. There's someone at the door. BRB.

Sung-ho: OK. Sure.

Tanmay: Back! BTW, my mum said she might give us a ride on Sat. She's going to confirm with me ASAP.

Sung-ho: Nice! LMK when she does.

Tanmay: OK. I have to go now.

Sung-ho: TTYL
