Introduction

In this worksheet activity, students create a restaurant menu, showing dishes they like to eat along with each dishes ingredients and price.

Procedure

Give each student a copy of the worksheet.

Tell the students to think of a name for their restaurant and write it at the top of the menu.

Students then complete the rest of the menu with dishes they like to eat.

The students write the name of each dish as well as a description of the ingredients and price.

If you have an imaginative class, you could ask the students to create new dishes.

When the students have finished, have them talk about their menus in front of the class. You could also display their menus on the classroom wall for other students to see.

As an extension, arrange the students into groups of three and have the students role-play a restaurant dialogue using the menus with one student being the waiter and the other two students being restaurant customers.
