Introduction

In this engaging free passive voice game, students practice making 'Name three' questions in the past and present passive.

Procedure

Divide the class into groups of three.

Give each group a set of cards. Tell the students to shuffle the cards and place them face down in a pile on the table.

Students take it in turns to pick up a card and make a 'Name three' question by completing the gap with the passive form of the verb in brackets. The student then reads out the question to the group.

The student does this without showing the card to the other group members.

The other group members then race to answer by naming three things belonging to the category.

The first student to do this successfully keeps the card.

The student with the most cards at the end of the game is the winner.

Afterwards, have a class feedback session to go through the questions and possible answers with the class.
