Introduction

In this fun present perfect activity, students play a game of bingo where they ask and answer 'Have you...?' questions.

Procedure

Give each student a copy of the worksheet.

Tell the students that they are going to play a game of bingo using the present perfect.

Explain that for every square on the bingo grid, the students need to ask another classmate a present perfect 'Have you...?' question.

If a square relates to a personal experience, the students make a question with 'Have you ever...?'

When a classmate answers 'Yes, I have' to a question, the student writes their name in the square and then moves on to speak to another student.

If a classmate answers 'No, I haven't', the student asks a different question or goes on to speak to someone else.

The first student to get five squares in a row in any direction shouts 'Bingo!'

When this happens, stop the activity and ask the student to make five present perfect sentences about the information in the squares, e.g. 'Becky has flown a kite. Derek has been on a long flight, etc.'

Then, have the students continue the game by trying to complete the entire bingo card with names.

Afterwards, have a class feedback session to discuss which questions were easy to find someone for and which ones were difficult. Also, have the students discuss their findings using the present perfect.

 has flown a kite	has felt excited recently	 has been on a boat	has sung in the shower	 has watched TV this week
has been on a long flight	 has done some exercise today	has travelled far from home	 has done laundry this week	has used a computer program today
